

NSW Women's Baseball League (NSWWBL) is hosting a Pink Sports Day to PLAY4BCNA

NSWWBL is preparing to pink up as it hosts a Pink Sports Day on Friday 17 January and Saturday 18 January 2020 in support of Breast Cancer Network Australia (BCNA). Pink Sports Day is an opportunity for sporting groups around Australia to show their support for, and pay tribute to, local people affected by breast cancer.

Each year hundreds of clubs across Australia take part to show their support for Australians affected by breast cancer. This year NSWWBL will join sporting groups nationwide as they rally together in a bid to raise $550,000.

Funds raised from Pink Sports Day help BCNA's work ensuring Australians diagnosed with breast cancer receive the best support, information, treatment and care.

BCNA CEO, Kirsten Pilatti, said 'Hosting a Pink Sports Day presents an opportunity for all sporting communities to support local people affected by breast cancer.'

'Pink Sports Day raises funds to provide support for the more than 20,000 Australians who will be diagnosed with breast cancer this year,' Kirsten said.

'The Pink Sports Day program is proudly supported by major partner, Red Energy, who sponsor the cost for producing, providing and sending the promotional material to sporting clubs around the country who are volunteering their time and energies for BCNA.'

NSWWBL Committee is urging the local community to get behind the Pink Sports Day.

"We hope that everyone will come together, pink up and get behind the teams as they play for a great cause!"
